Workshop on Financial Literacy on 19th July 2016

Workshop on Financial Literacy was conducted for B.Com Final Year students of all streams in association with the Marketing Department, Union Bank of India. The topic for the workshop was on Basic concepts to latest trends in Modern Banking System. The program started with the prayer by Principal Rev.Fr. Vincent Arokiadas. The opening remarks were given by Mr.M.Venkatesh, General Manager, Union Bank of India. He addressed the students and advised them to acquire knowledge and bring out the talents. Later the students were given account opening form and filled all the details and got the doubts clarified by the Bank staff.

At seminar Hall Mr.Maruthy, Marketing Officer, Union Bank of India, addressed the students about the banking system, from when the banks started to how big a role they play in modern times. It was quite illustrative as he played quite a few videos on how banking started and how banks operate. He then briefed on 2 very important loans that students require, the first one is Vehicle Loans, he said that there would be no interest charged or minimal interest charged on vehicle loans, that would depend on the situation. Secondly and most importantly he talked about Education Loans, he listed out the structure for education loans for upto 30 lakhs and payable after a period of 15 years. Loans taken up to 750,000 need not have assets placed as assurance, the guarantee of apparent or guardian would suffice. Next he gave guidance and advice on how to keep banking information confidential and how to make safe transactions when using our Debit cards, especially at the ATMs where risk of account information being stolen is high.

He concluded by talking about the future of banking and how all that has to do with banking will be linked to our phones in the near future, this will make our lives easier and it would be more user friendly. He stated that even now people rarely come to the bank branches to carry out transactions or ask for assistance, it has all become automated now.

It was an informative and wonderful session conducted by Mr. Murthy, who was informative and diligent in his approach with the students. As a token of love Union Bank had given Student Bags to all students who attended the program. It was a successful workshop satisfying its purpose and more.
